I have discussed the Navigation Safety of these sites with various recreational and commercial water users and I have not been informed of any accidents or incidents associated with the positioning or marking of these Marine Farms.

So long as the lights and radar reflectors remain in accordance with the standards set out in the System of Buoyage and Beaconage for New Zealand under the Maritime Transport Act 1994, I cannot see any Navigation Safety related reason why these sites cannot continue in their current form.

Yours sincerely,
Dan Cairney.

Hi Peta,

I have received your application but as I am new to the Harbour master position I am waiting on Maritime Safety feedback from interested parties before I get back to you.

So far we have not heard of any navigation concerns with this spat catching site.

Regards,
Dan.
