

Lord Rutherford statue back at birthplace after swift recovery

The statue of Brightwater's most famous son will soon return to its rightful spot after being taken on an unexpected weekend excursion recently.

For 30 years, the figure of a young Ernest Rutherford had been the centrepiece of the Lord Rutherford Memorial, located on the site of his 1871 birthplace.

However, in the early hours of Friday 5 August, it was removed from the site, with only the statue's feet and a steel pole left behind.

The theft was captured on CCTV camera and with the assistance of the public, a 35-year-old man was identified and arrested by Police two days after it went missing.

Constable Jamie White of Wakefield Police played a key role in recovering the statue and was on hand to return the young Baron to our Reserves Officers Richard Hilton and Jane Park.

Jamie said he was pleased that the community was able to have the statue of the Nobel Prize winning scientist back so swiftly.

We will now undertake remedial work to re-braze the figure back to its original form.

Richard said a replacement statue would have been extremely expensive so it was a relief that the memorial could retain the original which was first installed in 1991.

"It's a unique mould and trying to rebuild it would have been very difficult."

Given the damage to the statue from where it was broken off, the repair work was expected to take several weeks before being reinstalled at the top of the Memorial.

We are responsible for an immense variety of business operations ranging from maintaining roads, managing stormwater, and operating waste management, to supplying water, looking after parks, reserves and community facilities as well as a myriad of other things in between. ## Jimmy Lee Creek has the blues

An issue of unwanted colour in the creek has emerged in Richmond, with potentially toxic substances in one waterway reported to us recently.

A bright blue substance was seen flowing through Jimmy Lee Creek and we understand that white and grey-coloured discharges have occurred recently too.

Investigations are ongoing into the origin of the discharge, although it appears to have come from a stormwater drain discharging between Washbourn Drive and Bill Wilkes Reserve.

It is possibly paint from the cleaning of brushes or leftover paint in an outside drain.

This has been an ongoing issue for a number of years with contaminated stormwater discharges to Jimmy Lee Creek. We'd like to put an end to this happening and urge residents to consider the impacts of what they might be tipping down the drain.

In the first instance, we are concerned about the effects this may have on wildlife in the creek as well as dogs who play in the water.

However, there is the wider problem that Jimmy Lee Creek runs out into the Waimea Estuary, causing further environmental harm.

Drains inside the house run to the sewerage system, while outside drains, roofs and road gutters are directly connected to waterways, estuaries and the beach.

Because of this, only rain and clean tap water should go down your outside drains.

If you'd like more information, check out the stormwater section on our website. We also have a great pamphlet available from our service centres which shows the toxicity of various liquids and where they should go.

Home insulation subsidies make a difference

We contributed $60,000 to the Warmer Healthier Homes Te Tau Ihu Charitable Trust, for use over the first three years of our current 10-Year Plan 2021 – 2031. The Trust provides grants to retrofit insulation into qualifying owner-occupied homes across Te Tau Ihu (top of the South).

The Trust works alongside the Energy Efficiency Conservation Authority's Warmer Kiwi Homes grant scheme. The grant we made enables the Trust to leverage a further $240,000 from central Government.

Within Tasman, the programme has helped to insulate 116 homes over the past year from July 2021 to June 2022. The Trust has also insulated a number of homes in Nelson and Marlborough.

Heating and insulation can make a massive difference to your health. Having adequate home insulation can also mean that you use less wood in your wood burner, which in turn helps reduce air pollution in winter.

To be eligible for a grant, you will need to be the homeowner (owneroccupied):

- · Of a home built before 2008, and
- Have a Community Services Card or SuperGold Card with CSC endorsement, or live in an area identified as low income, or are families referred through the Ministry of Health's Healthy Homes Initiative.

Low-income areas are defined as being a New Zealand Deprivation Index 8, 9 or 10 area. In Tasman, this includes some areas of Richmond, Motueka, Brightwater and Tapawera in particular.

Homeowners can find out if they qualify for a grant (80 - 100% subsidy) by contacting the project contractor, Absolute Energy. Visit absoluteenergy.co.nz.

Join us and Step into Spring

Be part of a new initiative that promotes the benefits of walking for wellbeing and provides an opportunity for people to connect with each other and the environment, called Step into Spring.

We're joining Health Action Trust,
Top of the South Neighbourhood
Support, Te Whatu Ora Nelson
Marlborough, and Nelson City Council to put together a festival of safe, guided walks that will be hosted across Nelson Tasman throughout October. They will cover a range of themes and purposes catering for different abilities and interests.

We are calling all community groups and passionate individuals to organise a walk or two for the festival in an area they feel passionate about.

Why not put together a tour of historical sites in a neighbourhood, a nature ramble, or walks especially for children or families? Walks can range from casual strolls around the streets to adventurous hill climbs and hikes.

If you would like your walk to be included in the festival programme, visit tasman.govt.nz/events to fill out an expression of interest form.

Calling all artists – get your designs in now!

Our Chorus Cabinet Art Programme is back and submissions are open for designs to beautify communications cabinets around the District.

Five cabinets, three in Richmond, one in Motueka and one in Wakefield, have been chosen for beautification and artists are encouraged to get their designs in before Wednesday 31 August.

The project so far has been very successful, so Chorus has again partnered with us to extend its reach further.

These cabinets become works of street art, often telling stories about the communities in which they are located – the art also discourages tagging.

Our Community Partnerships Officer Yulia Panfylova is coordinating this year's designs and artists. She says we're looking forward to receiving submissions from ethnically diverse artists highlighting important aspects of community life. 'He aha te mea nui o te ao? He tangata, he tangata, he tangata!

More information can be found on Chorus' website: chorus.co.nz/community/cabinet-art-programme.

Meanwhile, the latest round of completed cabinet art can be seen on the streets.

Artist Julie Davies has called her work on Pah Street in Motueka 'Whio', featuring two Whio spotted near Flora Hut in Kahurangi National Park.

On Abel Tasman Drive in Clifton, Golden Bay artist Lorraine Polglase has titled her work 'Clifton Medley', which is a celebration of the local natural environment.

The classic kiwi one-lane bridge has been captured in this work in Aniseed Valley by artist Thijs De Koning titled 'Two Bridges, One Way'.

Student art rocks!

Nine Trades Academy students have created rock art dedicated to Matariki which are being sold to raise funds for a local organisation that teaches Te Reo.

The student's works of creativity are being sold in an online auction on our Facebook page to raise money for Te Ataarangi ki te Tauihu o te Waka-a-Māui.

Everyone is welcome to bid on their favourite rock art, simply comment the dollar amount you want to bid on the individual photo of the rock art you are interested in.

The highest bid on each photo at the end of the auction will win the rock. All details about each rock and the artist can be found on each individual photo.

The winners of each auction will need to make a bank transfer to Te Ataarangi ki te Tauihu o te Wakaa-Māui account number 03-0693-0124507-00, reference MR Auction.

To collect your rock art, you will need to send confirmation of payment to yulia.panfylova@tasman.govt.nz and then arrange to collect the rock from one of our service centres.

The rock art is on display in our Richmond Service Centre reception area for the duration of the auction.

The auction is underway now and closes at noon on Wednesday 31 August. Time to get bidding!

Planting is underway at Kingsland Forest Park

Kingsland Forest, on the flanks of the Barnicoat Range that forms the backdrop to Richmond, used to be a Council-owned plantation forestry block which has now become a popular recreation destination for bikers and walkers.

Public input was sought on the future of the area in 2020 to change it from a commercial forestry block to a recreational area and following feedback a plan was established which we're now putting in place.

The Kingsland name acknowledges the efforts of Henry and Tom Kingsland, father and son, who were involved in the pine industry in Richmond from the 1920s.

We are replanting a mix of native and permanent exotic trees, which will allow us to progressively improve recreational tracks and facilities over time.

So far around 7,000 of close to 10,000 native trees have been planted in the reservoir creek catchment of the recreation area.

In spring, the focus will switch to widescale weed control ahead of a big planting season next winter which will see around 36,000 natives and 15,000 exotic trees planted.

The picture above is where we're focusing on this planting season.

Despite a wet July, summer could still be dry

None of us need to be told that July across Tasman was wet, very wet.

Figures from our network of rainfall gauges dotted all around Tasman show rainfall for the month was on average 30 percent higher than normal.

The wettest parts were the hills surrounding Golden Bay where in one gauge we recorded 950 millimetres for the month.

But what does all this rainfall mean for the District as we look ahead to spring and summer? Actually, not a lot!

Our Senior Resource Scientist Joseph Thomas says our aquifers and rivers are relatively small so don't hold a lot of long-term storage capacity.

He says by the time we get to summer all the water that's been collected during winter will have flowed through and out of the system. Joseph says with just a couple of weeks of fine weather and drying winds we will be back to square one again.
